

OUR ETHOS

Getting groups to embrace their future in a 'Realistic and Positive' manner is our aim. We will take time to listen and understand their needs and requirements, and go that bit further in order to provide the very best service we can.

We want groups to feel totally comfortable, so all our seminars are delivered in a relaxed and informal yet professional manner.

Delegates are encouraged to ask as many questions as they wish as we want them to leave us with peace of mind, feeling confident and prepared for the future.

We arm them with the information of where to go for further help and advice to implement their plans.

We provide delegates with a comprehensive workbook designed to be used in conjunction with our events. This will help them plan & organise their future, and acts as a point of reference after the seminar.

PREP has provided various training events for us for the last 10 years.

The training is very customer focussed and the feedback from staff has always been very positive.

We will continue to use PREP in the future and I fully recommend their services.”

OUR PEOPLE

We invite a team of excellent presenters to compliment the structure of our seminars.

They are able to offer advice on:

- Pension Information – State and Company Provision
- State Benefits and Implications of the New Pension Legislation
- Financial Planning
- Estate Planning and the Importance of Making a Will
- Health and Wellbeing
- Planning and Developing Leisure Activities
- How to use the Internet to Save Money
- Change of Lifestyle

The Independent Financial Advisors and Solicitors who we invite to talk provide educational presentations that do not include any “hard sell” on either specific financial products or on their services.

“ PREP have extensive experience in training and development.

This is demonstrated by their professionalism in respect of all aspects of the programme, and most importantly their concern to meet the needs of the course participants. ”

OUR SERVICE

Our clients are offered a bespoke service to suit their requirements, ranging from half-day to two-day programmes.

Seminars can be run either 'In-House' or at an external venue. Alternatively employers can elect to include their people on our 'Open' events which run regularly throughout the year.

We are committed to providing top quality seminars and delivering up to date information. We constantly monitor our services, developing our programmes in line with customer feedback and delegate input.

You can be certain that attendees will be provided with new ideas and are encouraged to look forward to the future in a realistic and positive way.
